1. Purpose

The Customer and Community Advisory Council constructively challenges South East Water in all areas of its operations and planning. It is customer-centric in its thinking and plans its own agenda to enhance how South East Water services the Traditional Owners whose Country it operates within, its customers, community, partners and stakeholders, both now and into the future.

2. Areas of focus

The agenda of the Customer and Community Advisory Council is self-determined, however it should consider:

- a) how well South East Water is engaging with its customers, communities, partners and stakeholders
- b) how South East Water is partnering with the Traditional Owners and is including their cultural values within strategies, projects and operational activities
- c) delivery of promised customer outcomes
- d) South East Water's strategic plans and its implementation of government policies
- e) community education (to shape attitudes and behaviour) and customer experience
- f) water affordability and customer assistance
- g) recreational and environmental values
- h) existential challenges such as population growth and climate change
- i) South East Water's research to understand the above issues, track customer satisfaction and the resultant changes.

3. Membership of the Customer and Community Advisory Council

Council members are selected based on their skills and experience, with an expectation that some members can also broadly represent the interests of South East Water customers, communities, partners and stakeholders. (South East Water has other specific ways of engaging with these groups and quantifying the views expressed.)

The Customer and Community Advisory Council as a minimum includes a representative from the Aboriginal community and a member of the South East Water Board. There is an equal gender representation and a diversity of views in its membership.

4. Appointment of members

The performance of the Council is reviewed annually ensuring the Council is representative of South East Water's broad customer base and has the skills and expertise to constructively challenge South East Water's strategic planning and operational performance. In consultation with the Customer and Community Advisory Council, South East Water invites applications for replacement members or to expand membership.

The independent chair is a member of the Council (other than a South East Water representative) selected by South East Water.
